Love of Transference and Passion for the Signifier

Summary:

The author examines the circoumstances that led Freud to write about Transference love (die Ubertragungsliebe): Sabina Spielrein's analysis with Jung in which the erotic transference (die Liebesübertragung) is induced by the analyst. In this case the Interchange of signifiers emerges as a reality of thought transference on a scene of fiction. while the analytic situation, as a scene of fiction, allows some effects in reality by the significant articulation of the veracity of the subject's relation to the truth. A comparison is made between the analytic and the literary scenes.
